"MUSHROOM IDENTIFICATION BASICS AND THE VIRGINIA BIG 20"

May 11th, 2021

10:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m.

Stephen H. Kaplan will present "Mushroom Identification Basics and The Virginia Big 20."

During this program, Kaplan will discuss the critical role of mushrooms in the ecosystem. Additionally, he will provide a foundation for observing basic anatomy that is used to identify 20 common mushrooms that are native to our area.

Stephen Kaplan is a husband and father that has followed his passions of music, the great outdoors, and teaching. He and his wife, Alex, founded Kaplan's Welcome Home Farms in late 2015 to work on the family farm in Glade Hill, Virginia and share in the natural bounty right outside their door. In 2019, he developed a "one-page field guide" to help beginners start their journey into the fungi kingdom. With a sharp focus on anatomy and a short list of targets, "Mushroom Identification Basics and The Virginia Big 20" has become a fully developed class that can guide audiences of all ages toward identifying some common edible mushrooms. This program teaches people to not fear the unknown, but rather, to build confidence in the joy of discovery.

Please join us for a great program, fellowship, and invite a friend!
